P. J. DEAN ASSUMES
POST WITH BOARD

Fills Vacancy Left By Austin I. Getz, New Commissioner

R. C. Eckstein, North Lincoln ave., was elected president of the Perry township board of trustees at the board's first 1933 meeting at the home of Clarkson S. French, North Ellsworth ave., Tuesday night.

Member For Five Years

Eckstein has been a member of the board for five years, being appointed in 1927 to succeed the late James Ramsey. Since that time he has been elected to his position twice.

He succeeds Austin I. Getz as president. The latter has headed the board for ten years and was a member for 21. Getz resigned his position to become a member of the board of county commissioners to which he was elected last November.

Replacing Getz on the township unit is P. J. Dean, member of city council here for 12 years, who officially joined the board last night.
The township board has been meeting at the home of French, clerk of the township unit, because of his illness.

Through action taken last night,
meetings will be held at 3:30 p. m.
on the first and third Tuesday of every month at the township offices, South Broadway.

Getz Now Commissioner

Getz qualified as a member of the county commissioners' unit at a reorganization meeting held in the courthouse in Lisbon this week. He and Leroy Rinehart of East Liverpool succeeded J. C. Kelly of East Liverpool and Frank By of Negley whose terms expired.

John M. Kerr of Yellow Creek township was chosen chairman of the board with L. H. Johnson becoming re-elected as clerk. Miss Myra McCormick of Lisbon was named stenographer.

It was a military funeral in charge of Charles H. Carey post No.
55, American Legion. Rev. C. F.
Evans, pastor of the Christian church, preached the sermon. Rev.
M. J. Grable, Cleveland, former pastor of the Christian church here,

solo, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Berry.

The pallbearers were Walter
Mounts, R. D. Painter, Herbert
Bush, George Jones, A. L. B.
Harris, W. B. Cope, R. L. Hutcheson. Interment was in Grandview cemetery.

A large number of people from out of town attended. Some of them were from New Castle, Pa., Tanton, Youngstown, Pittsburgh,
Pleasanton, Lisbon and Alliance.

POLICE CHIEF FILES REPORT

107 Burglaries, Robber- ies, Auto Thefts Are Listed

A total of 107 burglaries, automobile thefts and robberies, 40 of which were cleared up through arrests by police, occurred in Salem
during 1932. Police Chief T. W.
Thompson announced today in his annual report to Safety Director John R. Kerr.

Members of the police department made 261 arrests last year.
Thompson reported. This was an increase of four over the 1931 total but 74 less than were made in 1930.

Solve 26 Burglaries

Fifty-one burglaries were recorded in the year, the report relates, 26 being solved by arrests.
There were 15 robberies and 28 automobile thefts, the perpetrators being arrested in 10 cases.

In 13 grand and petit larceny cases, police solved three through arrests, Thompson said.

A slight increase was made in arrests on intoxication charges, 67 being listed last year as compared with 58 in 1931. Arrests for the violation of city and state liquor statutes, however, showed a marked decrease, only 12 being recorded in 1932 while 41 were made in 1931 and 47 in 1930.

429 Calls Answered

Fifty-six persons were hailed before Mayor J. M. Davidson for reckless operation of automobiles
while 25 were charged with disorderly conduct. Fourteen arrests were made for the operation of motor vehicles while the drivers were under the influence of intoxicating liquors.

Proclaimers were unusually busy during the year, answering a total of 429 calls and complaints, 16 more than were made in 1931. The city jail housed 1,621 night lodgers in the last 12 months while less than 900 were given lodging the year previous.

Plan New Schedule For Church Meets

A new schedule of Wednesday night meetings is being inaugurated
tonight in the Methodist church.
There will be a half-hour devotional service in the primary room at 7:30, planned especially for the official board of the church.

At 8 o'clock the official board will have its monthly business meeting and the class, studying
"The Social Teachings of the Prophets and Jesus" will hold its first session in the Helping Hand class room, with Mrs. S. A. Mayer
as the leader for tonight.

The choir will hold its weekly rehearsal in the worship room and the Boy Scouts will hold their weekly meeting in the junior room, both at 7:30.

Will Present Play At Greenford High

Young people of the Greenford
Christian church will present a play
"Mary's Castle in the Air" at 8 tonight at the Greenford High school auditorium.

The Greenford High school orchestra will furnish music for the event.

On account of this play the Christian Endeavor society will not hold its meeting tonight.

CREW OF ABOUT 170 IS RESCUED

Most of Seamen Believed Picked Up by German
Steamer Ruhr

(By Associated Press)
CHERBOURG, France, Jan. 4.—
The crack French liner, L'Atlanti-que, serving in the South American run, was wrecked by fire of undetermined origin in the English channel early today.

Most of the crew of about 170
were believed to have been rescued by the German steamer, Ruhr, after abandoning the L'Atlantique, which carried no passengers and was enroute to drovick at Havre for the annual overhauling.

A military seaplane with two officers aboard left Cherbourg to fly over the burning craft to determine the status of salvage effort and also to seek to learn if all the crew escaped.

In view of the scene of the fire
being 75 miles away, details here were meager but it was reported that the Ruhr picked up most of the crew after they had taken to small boats. It was presumed that other ships rescued the remainder.

The exact number of men aboard was not determined but the owners reported that the vessel carried only part of the normal crew of 240
when she left Bordeaux yesterday morning.

Alaska Frightened By Earth Tremors

(By Associated Press)
SEATTLE, Jan. 4.—Seismologists of northwestern colleges sought today to check the course of a sharp earth tremor that frightened citizens of Seward, Alaska, and was felt in Washington state.

Gonzaga university of Spokane reported the quake was recorded at the Mount St. Michael observatory between 8:04 and 8:10 p. m. (P. S. T.).
Its center was estimated at a distance of 2,700 miles.

Seward reported a severe shock
of 20 seconds duration at 6 p. m.
(8 p. m. P. S. T.) vibrated and rattled portable objects, sending terrified residents into the streets.
Direction of the quake apparently was west to east.

Seattle felt two distinct tremors about 5:30 and shortly after 10 p. m. residents said their houses were swayed and furniture shaken up. One man said pictures on his walls moved visibly during the second shock.

STATE FACING WET PROPOSALS

Would Repeal Prohibition Amendment, Enforce- ment Laws

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Ohio, birthplace of prohibition and dry-even before liquor was outlawed by the national government, would repeal its state prohibition amendment and all enforcement acts under proposals in the 90th legislature.

Despite Gov. George White's statement that he would veto any changes in state liquor laws pending modification of national statutes, several anti-prohibition measures had been introduced when the assembly adjourned yesterday until Monday.

Awaits Federal Changes

The governor, while favoring modification, holds that the state should act only in the event of changes in the federal laws. Any other course, he said, would create confusion and "chaos".

Briefly, the various measures call for:

Repeal of the enforcement act.

Kentuckian Slays Wife, Kills Self

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 4.—The bodies of Mrs. Stella P. Owens, 31, Elizabethtown, and her husband, Arthur Owens, were found early today in Mrs. Owens' room in a boarding house here. Coroner Roy L. Carter reported the deaths as "a murder and suicide."

Mrs. Owens had been slugged with a hammer and shot behind the ear.
The man had a bullet hole in his right temple.

Police said marital difficulties
which had resulted in a divorce suit, later withdrawn, had caused the tragedy.

Here's Will's "Interview"

Takes Critical Peek In- to the Future

What does a poor man think of the future? Will Rogers yesterday promised an "interview" with one today and here is it:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 4.— Hello mister, was you ever asked to make a New Year's prediction?

"Say, I never been asked to eat on New Year's."

Have you ever been appointed on a commission?

"No, nor in jail either."

Do you read prominent men's predictions?

"No I never read fiction."

Have you a job?

"No, I am on a diet."

What does the New Year hold in store for you?

"What New Year? Have they got another one?"

Do you think the world leaders
can get us out of this?

Shakes Up Police in Gangster War

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 4.—A drastic shake-up of the Toledo police department was in effect today as Mayor Addison Q. Thacher sought greater effectiveness in the campaign against gangsters and racketeers.

The changes, including 10 promotions and two demotions, several of which were made Sunday, included the elevation of Daniel T. Wolfe, former captain, to chief of police, succeeding Louis J. Haas, who was made detective inspector.

Emmett Carl, a veteran of the department, was demoted from detective inspector to regular detective, and Detective George Tim-liney, acting inspector, was appoint-

ty, Greenford, Dublin and North Lima will hold a joint installation

Billie Burke and Daughter-Who's Who?

It looks very much as if Billie Burke, widow of the great stage
imprario, Florenz Ziegfeld, succeeded where Ponce de Leon failed and has found the "Fountain of Youth." This picture made when Miss Burke, now in films, lunched with her daughter, Patricia Ziegfeld, in Los Angeles, recently, provides an interesting problem for anyone not personally acquainted with the charming subjects; for it is almost impossible to tell which is mother and which daughter.
But for information Miss Burke is left.

VETS PROTEST AGE LIMITS FOR CITY JOBS

Reduction Automatically Bars Many Ex-Service Men,
Is Claim; Legion Goes On Record

Declaring that many World War veterans have automatically, been made ineligible for police and fire department jobs under new civil service regulations here, Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion, last night formally went on record as protesting the reduction of age limits and named a committee to investigate, in the interests of the post and ex-service men in general, officers said.

Reduced From 45 Years

The ex-service men aim their objections at the recent action of the civil service commission reducing age limits for firemen and policemen from 45 years, they said.

The revised limits, as announced by representatives of the commission, are 21 to 35 years for firemen and 25 to 40 years for patrolmen.

The top limits, the Legionnaires pointed out, automatically bar a large percentage of ex-service men.
According to statutes, the local civil service commission holds the power to set whatever age limits it so chooses.

Plan Patrolman Exam

The commission now is preparing to hold examinations to fill the vacancies created by the death recently of Patrolman Wilbur Hiddleston.
George Early is filling the post temporarily.

Members of the commission are Frank L. Stewart, president; E. T.
Kaley and Charles Rheutan.

RENAME HEALTH BOARD MEMBER

Council Members Approve Reappointment by May- or Davidson

The reappointment of H. M. Silver to the Salem board of health by Mayor John M. Davidson was confirmed by members of city council at their first 1933 meeting Tuesday night.

Silver was reappointed for a six-
year term.
Davidson is president of the unit,
other members being Dr. J. M. Mc-George, Harry Izenour, R. K. Yates
and J. H. Campbell.

Plans for the erection of a traffic signal light at the intersection of West Pershing st. and South Howard ave. were considered by council.

Erection of the light was advocated by Councilman George Harroff who reported that numerous traffic mishaps have occurred at the intersection.

The matter was referred by Council President Charles D. Baker
to Safety Director John R. Kerr for investigation.

Baker also announced that city officials are conferring on the city's 1933 budget and that a special meeting of council will be held soon for further study of fund needs.

Council approved an ordinance
exempting Salem residents of one year or more from payment of a $200 tax to be imposed on dealers classified as "itinerant vendors." Chain store operators were also exempt from the tax.

Bootlegger's Life Is No Bed of Roses

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—A bootlegger's life is no bed of roses. Not only does he have to keep on the lookout for prohibition agents, but City Sealer Joe Grein says he finds that alcohol distributing agencies are selling the bootlegger short.

Five gallon alcohol cans taken in raids on distributing centers were found to be three quarts less than what they were represented to be.

MRS. BELLE MOSKOWITZ

This side of the Alleghenies there aren't so many people who knew Mrs. Belle Moskowitz as there are on the other side—and there aren't thousands there. But in death she gets more attention than she ever wanted or would have accepted in life.

It is no discredit to her achievements that she is identified as an adviser to Alfred E. Smith, instead of by means of the numerous worthy enterprises for which she stood personally responsible. It would have caused her no displeasure to have known that death would bring publicity to her political interest instead of her broad social interests.

Although it has been common knowledge that the jovial and usually astute Mr. Smith owed much to the advice of Mrs. Moskowitz, his gratitude never was given the exhaustive description that would have made her a national figure. Like many another woman who has gained a vital position in the scheme of politics, she played her part backstage, finding it mutually advantageous.

It is said that Al Smith believed she had the greatest brain of anybody he ever knew, which is a broad statement for a man with a wide acquaintance among the great men of the times. But if he exaggerated slightly, she repaid the compliment by believing in his destiny as the greatest leader of his times. They had a splendid friendship—this grandmother who found time to sit down and talk with a grand father who lost a presidential election in 1928 and gained a place of leadership he probably couldn't have reached otherwise. There is something in it a little finer than American taste is accustomed to in the political dish.

LUCK IS BEST GUIDE

To those who enjoy joking about the haphazard acceptance of advice in the bubble days of prosperity there is recommended the conclusion of a study on statistics by Cowles of Colorado Springs, Col. He presented a study of stock market movements as compared with forecasts of those "in the know" to prove that investors could do better by themselves if they bought and sold according to card shuffling than they have been able to on the advice of professional informers.

To quote his conclusion: "Statistical tests of the best individual records fail to demonstrate that they exhibited skill, and indicated that they more probably were the result of chance. Mostly the experts were wrong—dead wrong." Of 16 financial services, only six were any good at predicting. One of them did remarkably well to be right a fifth of the time. Another was so bad that its score was a minus 6.1 per cent. From 4,000 forecasts in 24 financial publications extending over four years only one-third met with any success at all.

It's another way of saying that there could have been worse ways than believing the tip the barber gave gratis. Professional advice was no better—and possibly a shade worse.

LIKE A SUCKING DOVE UNPLEASANT CRIME
TOPSY-TURVY RUSSIA

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1932 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE STOCK market started business for 1933 yesterday, and, like the gentleman in "midsummer night's dream," proved that it could roar as gently as any sucking dove. The old lion-like five million shares a day roaring seems to be over, for the present.

Nothing much happened: prices wiggled lifelessly this way and that, principally this way, toward the bottom. But better times are coming, even in Wall Street.

SOME modern bandits seem hardly to deserve the kindness that meets them in some jails or the tender solicitude that some supervisors their punishment. Consider the gang of five who held up 35 patrons of a Brooklyn resort yesterday morning. While the 35, unresisting, stood against the wall and were robbed of $1,000 in money and jewelry, the criminals abused them with obscene and insulting language. When the job was finished one said: "Let's plug them, just for luck," and then one of the gang fired a shotgun at random into the helpless and unresisting crowd, wounding three.

To reform such gentlemen with kindness would seem difficult.

THE LAND that our "best minds" describe as "half mad, topsy-turvy Russia," does things that seem strange to "best minds."

Yesterday the Soviet court sentenced to death by shooting three of the most important officials of the communist party. They will be dead when you read this, probably. They didn't commit murder, but were "guilty of treason" in connection with grain production and distribution. In other words, they made it hard for the poor to get bread, difficult for the country to prosper.

THOSE queer people do not execute ordinary murderers. They put them in jail. They execute you if you engage in grain speculation or sabotage, which makes bread scarce, more expensive.

Possibly the angels also are "topsy-turvy" and agree with the Russian government that to deprive millions, including women and children, of bread is as serious a crime as depriving one individual of his life.

GRAND DUKE CYRIL of Russia dreams dreams, sees visions and expects to sit on the Romanoff throne some day. He says "The National conscience is gaining strength in Russia," and, solemnly, "Russian soldiers, I address you!" then calls on Russia's army and navy to bring back the czar. The gentleman doesn't know the Russian army and navy.

If a czar comes back, which is probable, it will not be one of the old type, but rather something new, like Napoleon, who took charge of France after the French revolution. Napoleon's task would have been too much of a job for any Bourbon, although the old kings did come back, for a little while, after Napoleon had left the French thoroughly tired, first of revolution and then of glory.

SENATOR COSTIGAN, Democrat, from Colorado, says there are 12,000,000 idle now. Gov. Lehman says New York state will need help from the government and it probably will, like many other states. By the time the government finishes "helping" it may need help itself.

Differ on Cosmic Ray Theories

Cosmic rays clashed and exploded into conflicting theories as two friendly rival scientists, both Nobel prize winners for physics, explained their views to the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at Atlantic City, N. J. They are Dr. Robert A. Millikan (left), president of the California Institute of Technology, and his former pupil, Dr. Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago. Millikan called the mysterious rays "super-vibrating light rays," while Compton contended the cosmic rays are electrons.

Survived Dramatic Escape from Siberia

A tragic story of the attempt of a group to escape from Soviet Siberia was disclosed when a small schooner was found on the beach at Yurimichigawa, Northern Japan, bearing three survivors of the ill-fated expedition and bodies of two men who died of exposure. Inset shows the three survivors who were too weak to tell a coherent story of their flight and resultant tragedy.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Varicose Veins and Phlebitis.

Many persons confuse a disease called "phlebitis," with a different ailment called "varicose veins." I receive many letters requesting information about varicose veins. Yet the symptoms given are typical of phlebitis. Undoubtedly these sufferers have phlebitis, rather than varicose veins.

In varicose veins there is an unnatural swelling of the veins. They are large, stand out prominently and obstruct the normal flow of the blood. The trouble may occur anywhere in the body, but most commonly in the legs and thighs.

Phlebitis, as its name implies, is really an inflammation of a vein. Varicose veins may be the ones to become inflamed. Indeed they are particularly liable to phlebitis. Causes and Symptoms

The inflammation may be traced to rheumatism, gout, an infectious disease of some sort, or to an injury. Phlebitis may be encountered after an abdominal operation with injury to one of the large veins leading to the extremities. It is often seen during or after child birth, when it is spoken of as "milk leg."

Phlebitis is more commonly seen in women than men. Poor circulation, anemia, faulty elimination, posture and improper diet, are factors. The disease is ushered in by chilly sensations, chills and fever. The affected leg or other part becomes painful. The pain may be dull or sharp and is made worse by walking. Within a short time the tissues become red, extremely sensitive and swollen. In severe cases the adjacent glands are enlarged and tender.

Immediate and intelligent care is imperative. A system already weakened by circulating poisons has little if any ability to combat a new infection. Complete rest in bed is essential. The involved part should be elevated.

Apply cold applications during the first twenty-four hours. A hot water bag or electric pad may be used after the acute symptoms subside. Flannel bandages are often

What Others Say

LOTS OF HEROES

President John H. Willey, of the Lord's Day Alliance of the United States, is gloomy because, he says, modern-day heroes have all turned into "milk-sops, cash registers and rubber stamps." He signs for a new D'Artagnan a new Ivanhoe, or even a new Dick Turpin. "How we range the library shelves," he cries, looking for a man who slams around him and periodically and hilariously raises Cain."

If the Rev. Dr. Willey will come out of his library and pick up the morning paper he will find heroes enough. They won't be complete, as Scott's or Dumas' heroes were. They can't be, because in real life men never are wholly great or admirable. But the heroic aspects of the people in the news are all the more fascinating because they belong to our human and imperfect fellow men and women.

He will find, for instance, Col. Lindbergh, a gentlemanly young daredevil who accomplished the most satisfying flying achievement of a miraculous age, and who bears his staggering honors well. He will find Admiral Byrd, the Virginian explorer, whose deeds are known to every schoolboy. If he prefers rubber stamps, he will find the genial gladiator Jack Dempsey. And Babe Ruth, who has been good lately but who used to periodically and hilariously raise Cain in a manner that would more than satisfy Dr. Willey. He will find Jimmy Walker; he is not a gay blade? And Al Smith, the most swashbuckling of politicians.

As for Dick Turpin, he have our bandits and hijackers and gun-men. They are a disgusting group, but so would Dick Turpin been disgusting in real life. Why bother with them? There are plenty of men who do fine deeds, spectacular deeds, generous and courageous deeds, who are neither milk-sops nor rubber stamps by any fair analysis. They bob up for a day, and then are forgotten. More take their places. The world is full of heroes.—Detroit Free Press.

After long absence, I dived through the Maiden Lane jewelry district. It's an alky-like spurt off Broadway below Fulton and once was one of the downtown's rearers. But now it's fraught with a semi-desolation, the pavements being only comfortably filled. In our noonday releases from the print shop, Hugo Mallard and I used to dawdle before Maiden Lane windows just to see the month of December, 1912, was a remarkable one. Its equal has not been seen for many years in point of fine roads, beautiful weather and almost total absence of severe storms.

The Fluckiger market which has been located at 85 Broadway for a number of years, has been moved into a fine new building, recently erected at the corner of Broadway and Race st., by William Fluckiger, Saltville. The village of Saltville is facing an epidemic of mailpo. On this account schools of the village were not opened when the regular holiday vacation closed.

Lisbon—Two new cases of scarlet fever were reported in the village. This makes seven cases. The new Panama stamps were received at the local postoffice Friday morning. The denominations of one five and 10 cents are all that have reached here as yet.

Mrs. Emanuel Greenberger entertained 36 women at a luncheon Thursday at her home. Garfield ave. Mrs. G. M. Silverman and Miss Ray Silverman Uniontown, Pa., and Miss Dora Cohen, Canton, were honor guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Elton, East Sixth st., gave an informal reception Thursday evening to a number of their friends. Out of town guests were W. M. Atwood, Chicago, and Miss Elmina Coppock and brother, Wilford, Oklahoma.

Miss Grace Boone returned to her home in Massillon after a visit with relatives here. John Patsch, 43, for several years a well known barber in this city, died Friday afternoon at his home.

Miss Lucille Fox has resumed her duties at the Hemmeter-Martens store, after a week's visit in Pittsburgh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Trade being as it is, gyp barber shops, comparable in rawality to the cabaret clip joints, have popped up all over town. Unless the shop is known, the casual dropper-in is due for a trimming and that doesn't mean a haircut. The majority are in the shadows of great terminals.

Surest suckers are the transients who, often while the tedium between trains with tonsorial ministrations. Such shops never expect the stranger to return; they give him "the works." All are bulwarked with faked price lists to stop squeals of the outraged.

In the whirl of duplicities is one almost sure way of establishing the easy mark. This is by placing a towel over the victim's eyes while inspecting his coat collar to see if it bears an out-of-town label. The more obscure the city, the heavier the tariff.

A venerable trick is surreptitiously to rub a clean towel over a shoe sole then pass it over the patron's hair and show him the snudge. This, as a rule, will result in a shampoo and perhaps a scented tonic. A thin scraping of soap on a thumb will suggest blackheads and a massage.

I grow increasingly churlish toward the art of Beatrice Lillie. Each season she comes back with a clashing of cymbals and an Algonquin accolade. Her faked stumbles, studied coyness and off Key "Puleeze!" were amusing the first time but after a few years I am cloyed. And I don't like the rude claque at her first nights. It may be smart to be crazy about La Lillie's performances but I prefer to be dumb—at least until Britain is more cordial to Yankee worthies.

GRAY WINS FAVOR

This Popular Color Serves for Every Occasion, Day and Night

The Entire Wardrobe of Gray

By MARIE MAROT

EVERY COLOR has its day, but here is gray with not only its day but its evening. It would seem that we are anxious to atone for our long neglect of this lovely color for so many seasons, for we find that ever so many women are ordering whole wardrobes in gray, from sports clothes to the most luxurious of evening frocks. Experiment with gray, it will amaze and delight you. For today we have a coat and hat in gray. The smart shoe, however, is in black, an afternoon pump in kid and suede, suggesting an oxford in its lines. The lovely coat is in that most delicate of furs, Russian broadtail, and is in gray. It is the three-quarter length, swagger type of coat that is liked this season. The hat is of gray fabric with braids of the fabric as trim. Good with a large coat collar.

Quiz Suspect In Cleveland Murder

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, Jan. 4. — A new suspect was arrested early today for questioning by investigators of the slaying of Mrs. Ruth Steese, young welfare worker, but at least three other men who had been arrested were removed by police from suspicion.

One of the men released from suspicion was wearing blood-stained gloves when he asked police, Monday night, to lock him in jail to keep him from "doing something" to himself. He identified himself as a former Colorado convict and bore a close resemblance to the description of the slayer, but the police were unable to connect him with the slaying.

The latest arrested suspect was a tire dealer for whom detectives had been searching several days. He also answers a description of the slayer, police said, including the possession of a cap with a metal visor and a "wind-breaker" jacket. The young woman was kidnapped last Friday after obtaining nearly $200 at an east side bank. Forty minutes later her body was found in the automobile she had used, beside an outlying road, 14 miles away. She had been blindfolded, robbed, her hands tied behind her back, and had been shot twice in the head.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Flowers and Bulbs Lend a Beauty and Charm to Home

There is something lovely and luxurious about flowers in the winter time. And so, wise women go in for bulb gardening and have winter rooms bright and sweet-smelling with bowls of hyacinths and later, tulips. Hyacinths are so easy to grow in bulbs and one can obtain specially carbonated fiber for them. Or else they will grow in glasses filled with water that just touches the bulb and no more. It is wise to add a small piece of wood charcoal to the water to keep it sweet. If you grow in fiber, start the bulbs into growth by thoroughly saturating fiber in water, then drain off and keep fiber just moist. Place bowl in an airy room or on a shelf in a shaded light. Not until the young growth pierces the bulb should the bowl be brought to a table near the window to mature their growth and to come to flower. City of Harlem, a pale lemon yellow; L'Innocence, a white shading to deep cream, and the King of the Blues, a deep indigo blue, are all excellent varieties for home growing purposes.

For Mixed Bulbs

Those who would like mixed bulbs in one bowl, might try one or two paper-white narcissus together with a few Roman hyacinths. Another charming combination is that of chionodox and snowdrops in wet pebbles and arranged in glass saucers. If you want to put hyacinths up in soil use a little leaf mold and some fertilizer and plant each bulb in the center of pots measuring about five inches across, with a little silver sand directly underneath. Make sure bulbs are absolutely firm with only their tops slightly exposed. After potting, stand pots in a level bed of coal ashes in a frame, invert a small pot over each bulb and cover with more ashes to a depth of from six to eight inches. Leave for about six weeks and you will find that the pots should be full of roots. They can then be placed in any warm room and should flower beautifully.

Home Luncheons Again Are Popular With the Hostess

New that we are doing so much entertaining at home, the luncheon party is coming into great favor again. My mail contains ever so many more bids to home luncheons than it used to, when a telephoned request to meet at the favorite restaurant used to be the thing.

I am all in favor of home luncheons. It gives a hostess a grand chance to demonstrate her gifts as a homemaker. Personally, I like a luncheon table that is set attractively but simply, with an emphasis on color, of course. Gay, peasant linens with colored glass and china in contrasting colors strike a cheerful note. Have a few flowers. Arrange them in a low bowl so that everyone present can see and converse easily without neck cranking. Have the menu carefully balanced and remember that heavy luncheons are completely out.

For the Small Party

If the party is small, the main dish made at the table with chafing dish or electric grill is grand and a lot of fun. Salads and desserts can be ready, waiting in the refrigerator. If it be a party luncheon, an anniversary, or a return compliment to fellow club members then it is nice to mark the meal by little dainty favors. And little dishes containing salted or sugared nuts and candies may be placed at each place.

Set each place with a service plate. Place a small bread and butter plate just above the fork at the left, with individual butter spreaders placed across each plate. Arrange glasses just above the knife on the right. Place folded napkin on the service plate or to the left. At a small luncheon it is nice for the hostess to serve her guests from the dishes placed in front of her, especially when there is no maid. A nice big bowl of salad is and looks good. The table should be cleared after the salad course.

A Luncheon Dessert

All dishes and silver should be removed, leaving nuts, etc., candies and glasses. The silver for dessert should be placed in front of each guest before that course is served. If there is no maid, then perhaps the guests will pass the dishes down to the hostess who can deposit them on a conveniently placed dumb waiter or tea wagon. Coffee may be served at the table or after luncheon in the drawing room or on the porch.

For a delightful luncheon dessert, nut delight, cut eight slices of pineapple into small pieces. Cut a half pound of marshmallows and a pound of walnut meats quite fine and mix with the pineapple and a little whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with almond. Arrange some lady fingers in glasses and fill with mixture. Cover with whipped cream and dust with powdered almond macaroons. Serve cold.

SYNOPSIS

Nevis and Bill Lancaster's ideal married life is of short duration. Complications set in when Bill makes a success selling bonds and they live beyond their means. Then Bill meets Olive Blanchard, who tries to win him. Although Bill loves Olive frequently, he loves only Nevis. Nevis, however, believing Bill is having an affair with Olive, encourages the attentions of Harry Carter. News of a friend's divorce makes Nevis realize how near the precipice is her own marriage and she begs Bill to take her away. He secures an inspector's position on a Porto Rican sugar plantation and he and Nevis begin over again. Their former harmony is missing, however. One day, Bill comes upon Nevis innocently holding hands with Harrison, a sugar expert from the States. A scene follows and Harrison's influence affects Bill in business and society. He blames Nevis. The climate disagrees with Nevis and she is homesick but does not complain. The young couple are unpopular with their neighbors due to petty jealousies. Bill receives no cooperation from his superior. He betters his position by ingratiating himself with Linda Hayes, wife of the manager of a neighboring company. Nevis, however, believes it is just another flirtation. After two months' visit to the States, Nevis returns. She longs for home, but, in spite of an attractive offer of a position from Nevis' uncle, Bill refuses to leave. Nevis realizes that the change has not brought them closer together and that Bill has the same temptation in Linda that he had in Olive.

CHAPTER XXIV

He had adjusted himself; he always did; and there was enough excitement to keep him going. There was to be more. For toward the end of February a great, long, feline looking car drove up the steep road to where Nevis' house was perched. Someone got out, tall and slim and smartly dressed and ran lightly up the steps. Nevis was sitting on the screened side porch, writing home. She wore faded riding breeches and puttees and a yellowing silk shirt. Not that she rode, but because in such a costume she had some protection from mosquitoes. She had not heard the car; and hearing the step, she thought it was out of the neighboring women. She pushed back the hair from her forehead—once returning to Porto Rico she had been unable to get a decent hair cut—and looked up, without much interest.

"My dear," said the girl on the other side of the screen, "it's too heavenly to see you! Where's old Bill? I'm down on the yacht with half a dozen stupid people. I left 'em at San Juan, and drove over. Can you put me up for a couple of days...?"

Fathers Instructed In "Baby Bathing"

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—When Dr. Herman Bundesen gets through with the fathers of Chicago they'll know how to bathe their children while their "better halves" are playing bridge. He is starting baby study classes for the dads in infant welfare stations in response, he said, to demands from fathers pathetically unfamiliar with the safety pins and such. When the pupils are ready for diplomas there won't be a better-informed group of fathers in the country, he believes.

Nevis rose. She stared, unbelieving. The other girl said: "The door's locked...aren't you going to let me in?"

Nevis walked over and took the hook from the door. She said, quietly, and actually smiled when she said it:

"Why, of course, Olive. Come in...are those your bags out there?"

Olive walked in, her slow gaze casually observant. "My dear, what a quaint little house," she said girlishly.

It was then that Nevis perceived that Olive had gone girlish. No other way to describe it. The lilies and lyangours had departed. Her clear, pale skin was washed clean of makeup, save for a soft, soft touch of color on the mouth. Her clothes were set to the tempo of a happy medium, not boyishly severe and not all feminine frills, they were smart, becoming, youthful. Her lids were more widely open than Nevis had ever seen them, her gaze direct, straightforward. She took off her small, chic hat and held it in one hand, and Nevis saw that her hair was now short, parted on the left side and loosely waved. She wore no earrings. Nevis laid, blankly.

"How amazing to have you here. We've a guest room of sorts. Do you mind sharing a bathroom? I hope not, because we only have one."

She took Olive into the little unused guest room which was furnished with austere simplicity. Olive said: "It's too lovely... What a country... I'm mad about it. I want to leave it. Nevis, you don't mind, do you, that I ran away from the stupid party and came here? I had to see you and Bill and I was tired of sightseeing; tired, too, of the yacht. It's so trying, cooped up in such a small space with people, no matter how much you like them."

The native chauffeur struggled in, bent low under a weight of bags. Nevis, conscious that her blouse and linen breeches were creased and rumpled, that her hair needed the attention of a comb and her nose a coating of powder, watched Olive briskly set to her unpacking; watched her lay her gold and tortoise-shell toilet things on the dresser, her jars and bottles of crystal and gold; watched her shake out any number of little intricately simple gowns and hang them up in the heavy old-fashioned wardrobe; and listened meantime to her chatter. Olive was animated, she was alive. It was as if something of ivory and ebony and hard bright jewels had come to life. What a fantastic person! thought Nevis. She had, it was evident, tired of her role of mysterious allurements, of heavy-lidded siren and had slipped back to an intensely vital, seemingly frank girlhood again. And Nevis' heart sank. Somehow Olive's present role was just the right one, the antidote to the climate and might easily intrigue Bill, once more. Had she arrived as formerly, trailing clouds of glory, incense, heavy perfume, languors, he might have been irritated by her absurd theatricalism. But she was cool and competent and—more attractive than ever.

The native chauffeur departed, having received his instructions. Nevis heard the car move away. Olive explained: "If you'll be a dear and keep me with you, he'll come back for me, in a week. Dad and the others are making all sorts of side trips. I ran away," she added with a glance that would have been pure mischief, coming from anyone else. Emanating from Olive, it was incredible.

"Who's with you?" Nevis asked, not that she cared. "Oh, Deane and the Fellowes—they're a middle-aged couple—and Fan and Tob Jordan... you met them at my house, didn't you? And a lad named Howell Moore... nice boy," said Olive, carelessly, "he's an actor, perhaps you saw him a couple of seasons ago in 'Where Is My Husband?'"

"An actor?" Nevis remembered Della's casual bit of gossip. She replied, further: "No, I don't think I saw him. But I was home, you know recently and saw something of Della. She said that you were interested in—an actor."

"Put like that," Olive remarked laughingly, "it sounds awfully nice, but... hundred-matinee-idol-stardom-crush and all, doesn't it? But Howell's a dear person. We get along."

Nevis thought; they've quarreled. She's come here to—see Bill—and to teach the new one a lesson.

Nevis laughed suddenly. "What's the joke?" asked Olive, amiably.

"Nothing," Nevis told her guilelessly.

"It wasn't so comic after all, Nevis thought... here I made Bill give up his job and leave the place we cared a lot about to come down here because I thought our marriage was going on the rocks because of the sort of crazy life we led. But back in my mind I was really trying to get him away from Olive. We've been in Porto Rico a long time. Long enough to have him turn to Linda Hayes as a welcome change from a malaria-ridden, sloppy wife. And here's Olive to make it more complicated. Well, thought Nevis, discovering her sense of humor, we'll fight it out on this basis if it takes all week. She said aloud: "Bill will be tickled to death to see you."

"Can't we phone him?" Olive wanted to know, with barely concealed eagerness. "Hardly. He's out somewhere riding the rounds or doing something which won't bring him back again until dinner time. I must go and see what Maria has for dinner, by the way." She rose. "I hope you've realized by now that the mosquito netting over your bed isn't just for looks."

"Of course. We found them in the hotel, the nets, I mean. Speaking of looks, you don't look awfully well, Nevis, darling."

"I'm fine," said Nevis stoutly. "The climate hasn't agreed with me, much, and I have had touches of chills and fever ever since we arrived. But my two months at home set me up in great shape." She went into the kitchen and gave directions to Maria, a gregarious soul, liked company, which was a blessing. She planned, mentally, returning to Olive, I'll have to give some parties for her... the Hayes and some of the others. We could get up a couple of tables of bridge. She thought frantically of bachelors. There was Mickey Davis, he might do. This company wasn't as rich in bachelors as the other one. Still there was Davis and Gerry Holmes, two nice Southern lads, who would be pop-eyed with pleasure at the thought of a new girl on the place and would run about wildly trying to steal or borrow or beg clean fresh linen suits and who would shine up their riding boots until they reflected their young and bronzed faces. She said to Olive:

"Nice people here. Linda Hayes—her husband's our boss, you know—is very charming." She added with deliberate malice. "Bill thinks she's a knockout. She's one of those blondes who, somehow, doesn't fade in this country. And there are a very nice couple or two and some bachelors. By the way, we'll have to give a dance for you, Linda has an enormous screened veranda and she'll be delighted."

"I came to see you, darling, not to be entertained," said Olive. During the remainder of the afternoon they sat on the little porch and looked over the mountains and a distant glimpse of the sea while Olive talked animatedly about her trip and her father and the comforts of the yacht. She kept away from personalities, something unusual, thought Nevis, or did it fit into the new role? And, a little before six, Bill, in riding kit, and looking, Nevis realized, with a sinking heart, superbly strong and tanned and well, if a little leaner than when Olive had known him, walked up the steps, whistled to Nevis, stopped short and said:

"Olive? Not Olive! Well, I'll be a son of a gun!" He had both her hands in his own. He pumped them up and down interminably. He asked: "How the Hades did you get here? Well, this is great. We'll have to have a celebration. How do you like our shack? Nevis, did you know she was coming and didn't tell me?" he asked reproachfully.

Nevis said: "No, I didn't know until she walked in."

Alliance-Massillon Clash Tops Big Ten Cage Menu This Week

Salem Five Tackles Chaney High Team In Game on Saturday

A renewal of basketball relations between Alliance and Massillon High schools provides the bright spot in the cage menu involving member teams of the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten association this week.

The Aviators tackle their Stark county foe from Massillon on Friday night.

It is one of six Big Ten league contests booked this week.

Salem Cagers Face Test

Just how powerful Salem's veteran court machine is may be ascertained Saturday night when the Quakers are hosts to a strong Chaney High squad from Youngstown. The Quakers will have plenty to do in defeating the Chaney lads and the fact that they have been losing for two weeks during the annual Christmas and New Year vacations won't help the Stomenen any.

The Youngstowners have already played six games this season and are playing all contests away from home, lacking a court of their own.

HIGH SCHOOL CAGE GOSSIP

Although idle last week, William Rogers, Sebring forward, remained first place in individual scoring of the Tri-County league. Rogers has registered 16 field goals and two free tosses for a total of 34 points in four contests.

Vanaman of Lisbon who is right at the heels of Rogers maintained his second place position though idle last week. Two Columbians, high lads, Liston and Zellers by their scoring activity last week are threatening the positions of Rogers and Vanaman and the pair are tied for third place with 32 points.

The individual records follow:

PLAYER	GO.	FT.	PTS.
Rogers, Sebring	4	16	24
Vanaman, Lisbon	4	15	33
Liston, Columbiana	5	15	32
Zellers, Columbiana	5	14	32
Shaffer, Sebring	4	14	31
Tetlow, Sebring	4	14	30

J. Detwiler, C'm'n	5	9	23
Linden, Boardman	3	10	22
Edwards, Boardman	4	10	22

Meeting two reverses at the hands of Akron schools last week, N. E. O. Big Ten quintets broke even in four non-league frays.

Alliance suffering her second setback by a one-point margin fell before North High 28 to 27 in two overtime periods while Wooster was halted 28 to 7 by the undefeated Garfield quintet. Wooster scored but one field goal, it coming in the third period.

Salem High did not play last week.

Massillon and Dover accounted for the two victories. Dover defeated a strong Coshocton crew to hang up her third successive victory and reverse a last year's defeat. Massillon registered her fifth victory of the campaign in disposing of Akron Central by a 26 to 13 score.

Sophomores Add to Strength Of Ohio Wesleyan Quintet

When Ohio Wesleyan opens its Buckeye conference basketball campaign Saturday night against Miami at Oxford, these two sophomores are expected to bolster the Bishops' attack.

Howard Stammier, Columbus, has been a shining light both on offense and defense in the team's early season games. He especially shone in the Bishops' 40 to 38 victory over Ohio State. He is a guard.

Donald Boppel, Cleveland, a forward, is adept on the pivot play and also possesses a keen eye for the basket. He was a promising prospect last season but an appendix operation forced him from action before the team had played a game.

Along with these two men, Coach Ray Detrick has six lettermen and several other sophomores. The lettermen include Clarence Hendricks, Findlay, all-Buckeye center and the leading college basketball scorer in Ohio last season; Robert Kolb, Columbus, and Lavern Bolton, Detroit, forwards; Wilmer Dickerson, Adena; Harold Duncan, Cleveland; and Richard Milby, guards.

The early season games proved Ohio Wesleyan to be a powerful scoring outfit. They totaled 216 points in five games for an average of 43 points per game, which exceeds a point per minute, each game being 40 minutes in length.

Based on early season games, Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio Wesleyan seem to be the foremost contenders for this year's Ohio title. Ohio Wesleyan defeated Ohio State, Akron Goodyear, Findlay and Toledo St. John's, but lost to Western Reserve. Ohio beat Reserve, but lost to Goodyear. The Bobcats also scored wins over Bliss and Wilmington.

Southpaw Sought By Pirate Leader For '33 Campaign

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4. Skipper George Gibson of the Pirates of Pittsburgh, is reported scanning the baseball horizon for a southpaw seige-gun to help carry his 1933 campaign against the other seven clubs of Heydlerism.

Get Fred Lindstrom

Bagging of Freddie Lindstrom from the New York Giants, so the followers say, makes the Pirates formidable contenders for the swag in the next season's battle among the National League clubs. Also remembered, is the spectacular infield that flourished most of the way in the last campaign.

But the fighting chief wants more strength in a defensive way to repel the war clubs of President John Heydler's assortment of Giants, Cubs, Cardinals, Reds, Braves, Dodgers and Phillies.

Wants New Hurlers

Frankly, Old Gibby really isn't particular about whether he lands a seige-gun of southpaw or orthodox caliber—so long as the firing line is strengthened, though, if two were available, the left-hander would be preferred. He wants a pitcher of tested ability, be his name Halloran, Root, Hubbell, Brandt or some one else.

The skipper realizes that for a good pitcher he must give value received but the possible price, a Wauer, or perhaps Traynor, would weaken the Big's crew elsewhere.

So, realizing the job ahead, Gibby has the weather-eye out for the right man, the right proposition and the right time for a trade.

Sheen's and Golden Eagle Victims In Setbacks Tuesday Night

John Sanders Orphans and the Mullins Foremen's club pulled away from the pack in the fight for the Salem Class A league championship, gaining easy victories in two contests at the Memorial building gymnasium Tuesday night.

Gain Decisive Triumphs

The Orphans gained their fourth consecutive victory by triumphing over the Golden Eagle club, 40-25, while Mullins had things its own way in conquering Ed Sheen's service station outfit, 57-14.

The Foremen's victory was the most decisive gained by any team this season in Class A competition.

Lester Oider and Robert Campbell set the pace in the Mullins victory, Oider leading the scoring with 10 field baskets. Bill Robusch was another "big shot" for the Foremen.

Nedelka Stars

The Orphans outclassed the Golden Eagle to gain a 20-9 lead at the half with Tom Nedelka continuing towards the league scoring title with six fielders and a foul for 13 points.

Girls' league games will be the attraction at the community gym tonight.

Who will be this year's conference scoring champion? Clarence "Babe" Hendricks, Ohio Wesleyan's ace center, as the leader last year with 131 points in the 12 games. No other player attained the 100 mark.

Reverend DePauw forward, had 95 for second place.

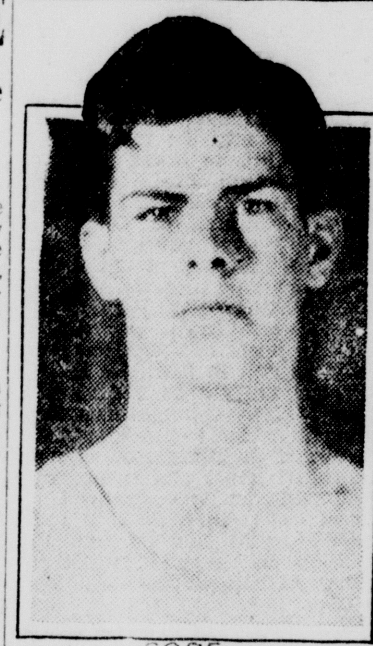

Hendricks is back at the Bishop pivot position once more, but to retain his laurels as champion scorer will be a difficult task. One of the likely contenders is Bernard Berenz, Ohio's sophomore center, and another is Elwood Pitzer, Wittenberg's flashy guard, who played only half of last season.

Two Salem High Youngsters Gain Laurels at Mt. Union

COPE

Salem High has always contributed generously to the success of Mount Union college athletics but in the past three years the Quaker City has done more than its share, athletically, for the Alliance institution.

Two of the reasons why the Purple has been maintaining its athletic prestige at high standing are Robert Cope and Lowell E. Allen, stars in football, basketball track and baseball.

Seeks 3rd Cage Award

Allen is now seeking his third varsity basketball letter at Mount Union. He has already earned five varsity awards at the college, being awarded his letter twice in track, twice in basketball and once in football.

Buckeyes Among Leading Big Ten Titular Threats

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—As the heavy barrage from preliminary battles lifted over the Big Ten basketball front today not a single Conference team was left standing without defeat.

Ohio State Strong

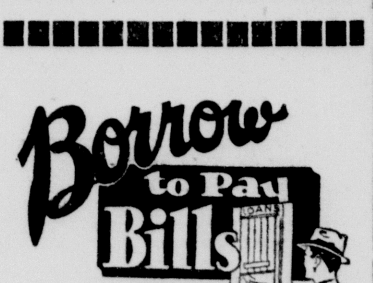

The toll of defeats, probably the heaviest in 10 years of pre-Conference warfare, showed 19 setbacks for the Big Ten teams as against 31 victories. Out of it all, the opinion became more definite that a sizzling fight for Conference honors was in the offing with Ohio State, Northwestern, and Purdue the principal contenders.

Iowa, the last Big Ten team to fall as the pre-Conference schedule closed, met unexpected power in North Dakota State and fell, 17 to 1.

Two other Conference teams, Wisconsin and Indiana, closed the pre-Conference schedule in defeat while Illinois wound up with a 39 to 28 triumph over the University of Detroit. Marquette dropped Wisconsin for the second time this season, 22 to 16, and Miami university stopped Indiana 33 to 29.

Six Teams In Race

Six teams—Ohio State, Northwestern, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Purdue—finished with preliminary game records of four victories and one defeat; Indiana won three and lost two; Wisconsin lost three out of five; while Michigan and Chicago shared the "cellar" with one victory and four defeats each.

CROWLEY NAMED FORDHAM COACH

Former Notre Dame Star Quits Michigan State For Eastern Post

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—James H. Crowley—"Sleepy Jim" of Notre Dame fame—has been appointed head football coach at Fordham university.

Announcement that Crowley, head coach at Michigan State for the past four years, had signed a three-year contract was made last night by Jack Coffey, graduate manager of athletics at Fordham. He succeeds Major Frank Cavanaugh who resigned two weeks ago.

Coffey declined to reveal salary terms but it was understood Crowley would receive about $11,000 a year, some $3,000 more than he was paid by Michigan State.

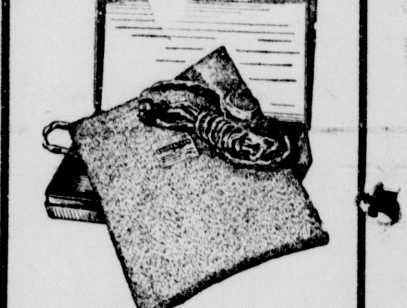

The Miami-Ohio Wesleyan game Saturday night will mark the first meeting of these two schools on the basketball court since the 1931 season. They did not play last year because each of the eight teams was forced to drop one opponent from their unwieldy schedules.

BOOKLINE, Mass.—With many clubs offering the lowest rate in history in drives for members, the Country Club, oldest and perhaps the most exclusive golf club in America, reports a waiting list of 776, almost as big as its membership of 875.

Rural Areas Get Reduced Gas Rates

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—A new schedule of lower gas rates was filed with the state utilities commission here today by the Manufacturers Lighting and Heating company of Pittsburgh, Pa., which operates in a number of cities, villages and hamlets in eastern Ohio. The company's petition states that the decrease rates will bring the rates in villages, hamlets and rural communities of Columbiana, Jefferson and Belmont counties to a level with that charged in cities.

THEATER Attractions

"ROCKABYE", starring brilliant Constantine Bennett and featuring Paul Lukas and Joel McCrea, plays today for the last times at the State theater.

The story concerns a temperamental actress and her loves and hates. A most intriguing person is Judy Carroll, swinging like a pendulum from the Judy that was born in the gas house district to the Judy whom Anthony De Sola (Lukas) discovered, educated and made into the actress she is. So put on and clever she is, that the many admirers she has never suspects her birthplace, her real self—only De Sola knows this.

She finds in the play "Rockabye" the part she longs to do. . . then the author Jake Pell (McCrea) believes she is unable to play the part of a street gamin. . . But, then these two fall in love, he learns life her life story. . . she gets the part.

Beautiful gowns, as in all the Bennett pictures, are in full sway and the modernistic settings are lovely.

"ME AND MY GAL", starring the ever likable Spencer Tracy and the youngest of the Bennett sisters, Joan. . . that is the feature at the State for Thursday only.

The story in brief concerns a romance built around a wise little cashier in a cheap restaurant and a wise-cracking detective. As the romance flourishes the detective discovers an escaped gangster hidden in the attic of the home where the cashier and her sister live.

The picture depends mostly on its comedy. Tracy always being good in this line and Miss Bennett seems to have forgotten her greatest fault of her past films—that is—a failing to smile. . . She has an entirely different role in this latest picture. . . one that gives her new chances.

STATE FACING WET PROPOSALS

Abolition of the state prohibition department.

Legalization of beer containing 3.2 per cent alcohol.

Repeal of all local option laws.

Repeal of the Dow-Aiken tax on liquor establishments.

Repeal of state constitutional prohibition upon approval by the voters.

Early consideration of any of the proposals probably will be forestalled by many pressing problems facing the legislature. Among other things, it must devise means of raising millions of dollars for poor relief and bolster dwindling revenues needed for the operation of the state government.

In his first message to the assembly, which convened Monday, Gov. White asked an appropriation of $1,500,000 to finance the government during the next six months. Next Monday he will submit the regular two-year budget along with his inaugural message.

The legislative machine will swing into high gear following the inaugural ceremonies.

Subjects to be considered include unemployment insurance, old age pensions, taxation, school finances, unemployment relief, and many other problems arising from economic conditions.

Bills already introduced call for enactment of a 2 per cent sales taxes, free text books in the schools and cancellation of certain highway assessments against real estate.

Gov. White, in his initial message, recommended ratification of the "lame duck" amendment to the federal constitution and asked the senate to investigate the record of Charles F. Schaber, whom he named as a member of the state utilities commission.
